

M'REYNOLDS' "CONFESSION" RELATED TO JURY

ATTEMPT TO BOMB CHIEF INVESTIGATOR

Thugs Surprised While Trying to Place Bomb in Auto

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(UP)—An attempt to plant a bomb in the automobile of Patrick Roche, Chief Investigator for State's Attorney John A. Swanson, today climaxed a night of terror in which bombs rocked a building on fashionable Michigan Avenue and two structures in other parts of the city.

A Negro attendant frustrated what police declared was an attempt to blow up Roche's automobile. A bomb was being connected with the ignition of the investigator's big limousine in the Oakland Square garage by two men shortly before dawn when Clifford Jones, the Negro, surprised them.

The men fled, one snatching up the bomb. Jones grappled with the other but was knocked down. Police said that had the Negro arrived a minute later, the bomb probably would have been in place and the hood of the car lowered.

Roche has been a nemesis for gangsters, racketeers and criminals of all sorts and those with motives for taking his life are legion.

A few hours before the bombers entered the garage to plant the bomb Roche had sprung a trap in a fashionable near north side apartment in which a robber was probably fatally wounded by a policeman who lay in ambush with the Chief Investigator.

Another trap last Sunday night, engineered by Roche, resulted in the capture of half a dozen alleged members of a robber gang that had terrorized the Gold Coast for several months.

Several Bombings
The major bombing of the 12-hour reign of terror occurred on Michigan Avenue where exclusive hotels and style shops give way to automobile company display rooms and loan offices.

A dynamite bomb, so powerful it rocked "Boul Mich" for several blocks, wrecked the office of the Lewis E. Bower Automobile Loan Company last night. Bower, sitting in the front office escaped but the building was wrecked.

Concussion from the blast sent windscreens shattering into the laps of motorists. Glass of all nearby buildings fell into the street and buildings were paralyzed. St. Lukes Hospital, two blocks south, felt the jar of the explosion and patients in the 12 story building were terrified. Guests from the Southern hotel nearby rushed to the street.

Bower was unable to explain the explosion.

Five families, with 20 children, were sent screaming into the street when a bomb shattered the grocery of Clement Jesuits on the south side. Jesuits, who lived above the store, escaped, and other residents of the building suffered only minor injuries.

Damage was estimated at $1,300. The grocer could ascribe no reason for the attack.

A shoe rebuilding shop in the Bryn Mawr apartment hotel was the other target of terrorists. The blast wrecked the interior of the shop, doing $1,000 damage, and aroused those asleep in apartments throughout the big building.

Snooper Outsmarted By Health Officer

Evansville, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A snooper has been outsmarted by John W. H. Pollard, Commissioner of Health.

For several days the rascal had been peering through windows, until Mrs. Pollard finally asked her husband to do something about it.

The commissioner got a sign and posted it near the door through which the snooper was wont to snoop. He then withdrew to await developments.

The snooper appeared, read the sign, and then ran like everything to get out of the neighborhood.

The sign read: "Keep Out! Small-pox!"

POLICE TRAPPED ROBBER IN GOLD COAST APARTMENT

Shot Him As He Was About To Rifle the Cash Register

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A thief was shot and probably fatally wounded early today by policemen who trapped him in the robbery of a Gold Coast apartment hotel.

Patrick Roche, Chief Investigator for the State's Attorney, and two police officers were concealed off the lobby of the 211 East Delaware building as the robber entered. The man carried a revolver which he pointed at night clerk, Abraham Dansk.

Neither Roche nor his men were able to interfere, fearing the thief might use Dansk as a shield or possibly shoot him. The officers remained concealed while the robber took Dansk to the 17th floor and locked him up.

Back in the lobby, the robber walked to the cash register and was taking $50 from it when he heard Policeman John Greer call out, "Throw up your hands."

The robber whirled, reaching for his gun. Greer fired once, the bullet entering the shoulder and penetrating one lung.

At the hospital slight hope for the man's recovery was given. He was tentatively identified as Andrew Wright, 35 years old.

Feeling Between Senators Growing

Washington, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Herbert A. Metz, president of the General Dystuffs Corporation, told the Senate Lobby committee today he had sent a check for $1,000 to Senator King, Democrat, Utah, during the 1928 campaign but that it never had been cashed.

Metz also testified to contributing $1,000 to the King campaign in 1922. Feeling between Chairman Caraway, Dem., Arkansas, and Senator Robinson, Rep., Indiana, developed during the session.

Sensor Robinson asked Metz about his duties as treasurer of the American I. G. Chemical Corporation when Chairman Caraway intervened. "Answer the questions, though they have nothing to do with the whole matter," Caraway said.

"What do you mean it has nothing to do with the whole matter?" Robinson asked Caraway.

"What he did in Congress has nothing to do with it," Caraway said. "Well, I think it has," Robinson said, and continued questioning Metz.

RUM REBELLIONS IN WEST TARGET OF DRY OFFICERS

Almost 400 Are Under Indictment: Agent Is Abducted

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS). Almost 400 persons, including many public officials, today were under federal indictment for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in four gigantic "rum rebellions" in western states. Alleged liquor rings in Idaho, Wyoming, Oklahoma and Texas were objects of the governmental drive.

Trial of 102 persons accused of conspiracy was to be started today in Federal District Court in Oklahoma City, while trial of 23, including former State Law Enforcement Commissioner W. C. Irving, was continued in Cheyenne, Wyo. Gov. witness in Cheyenne yesterday and Frank C. Emerson appeared as a former Governor. Henry S. Johnston was subpoenaed to testify in the Oklahoma City case.

120 Texans Indicted
A federal grand jury in Galveston adjourned yesterday after indicting about 120 residents of south Texas in several liquor conspiracy cases. Its last act was indictment of a Galveston group which included a former Coast Guardsman and two policemen.

Local governments of the city of Mullan and Shoshone county, Idaho were disrupted by conviction recently of virtually all principal office holders on liquor conspiracy charges and the same fate faces Wallace Idaho. Forty-four of approximately 200 persons indicted in northern Idaho, including the mayor of Wallace, the Shoshone County Sheriff and City Councilmen and Police, are to be tried in March.

Forty-two persons convicted in the last term of federal court at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, which included the Mullan "rebellion" conspirators, and 65 who pleaded guilty were given fines totaling $18,800 and prison sentences aggregating 29 years.

AGENT ABDUCTED
Seattle, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A federal agent, D. Dunning, was abducted by a gang of alleged liquor racketeers here early today and was found in the south end of the city an hour and a half later, badly beaten and wandering about in a daze.

Dunning was reported to have had one eye gouged out but an examination of the organ later showed that it was not as badly hurt as was first believed.

R. Ginn, another undercover federal agent, who said he had been working with Dunning, reported to police that they had been working on a "deal" with bootlegger suspects and met the racketeers by pre-arranged plans.

Ginn said he and Dunning completed the deal, and that Dunning, who had entered the racketeers' car flashed a pair of handcuffs and snapped them on the wrist of one of the men.

The bootleg suspect, Ginn said, swung his free hand and knocked him (Ginn) into the street. Ginn said the man then jumped out and kicked him several times, leaped back in the car and, informing Dunning that they were going to take him "for a ride," sped away. Ginn, although badly beaten, managed to spread the alarm.

All available police officers were called to hunt for the car, which authorities said was registered as James Williams of Seattle.

Dunning was taken to the city hospital where he was given emergency treatment. While scarcely able to talk, he said that one of two women in the car strangled him and that the three men in the machine all took turns beating him.

Dunning asserted that he snapped his revolver in their faces several times, but it missed fire. They merely laughed, he said, and continued the beating. He escaped when the car stalled temporarily at Duwamish, south of Seattle, on the Seattle-Tacoma highway.

PLANES CARRY FOOD TO FLOOD VICTIMS TODAY

Serious Plight Of The Sufferers Is Revealed

Motherhood May Prove Martyrdom
Evansville, Ind., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Motherhood probably will prove martyrdom for Mrs. Charles Holtzclaw, whose baby died from exposure an hour after it was born in a barn manger where the mother fled from flood waters.

Along with the torrent shaking the barn and the weather bitterly cold, Mrs. Holtzclaw went through the ordeal of motherhood. When rescue workers found her, she was too weak to be moved to safety and high waters made it impossible for doctors to reach the community.

Today she was worse and death was expected to occur at any time.

A motor truck left Dixon last night and returned this morning from Kewanee with the new plant. The contractors had torn out the old steam plant which had seen 36 years of service and were far enough along with the installation of the new boiler to assure its operation by 5 o'clock this evening.

Harry Mangels, representing the Peoria street, discussed the proposed improvement with the board members but voiced no objection, stating that he was in favor of local improvement and was seeking information only, as to the effect of the improvement upon the Mangels property, which he said, would possibly be sold next summer. Representatives from the Northwestern and Illinois Central railroads were present but voiced no objections. Resolutions adhering to the scheme for local improvement ordinances 253 and 254 were adopted by the council at the close of the board of local improvements meeting.

CONGRESS ASKED TO SURVEY ROCK RIVER AND CANAL

Congressman Buckbee Of Rockford Presents Bills

A definite movement toward making Rock River navigable has been made by Congressman John T. Buckbee of Rockford, who has introduced two bills in Congress asking for a government survey from Janesville, Wis., to the Hennepin canal feeder at Rock Falls. The first bill provides for an examination and survey of Rock River from Rockford to Sterling, the Hennepin canal feeder that connects Rock River with the Illinois River and the Illinois river to the Mississippi. The aim is to secure a nine foot channel to secure a 9-foot channel which would carry industrial and agricultural shipments of the Rock River valley and northern Illinois, Congressman Buckbee's second bill provides for a similar survey of Rock River from Rockford to Janesville with a view of making the upper reaches of the river navigable and giving that section a connection with the inland waterway system.

Industrial and agricultural leaders in Rockford are said to be backing the movement that has found definite form in the Buckbee bills. They hope to induce the War Department to include Rock River in President Hoover's great plans for the inland waterway system, which, when completed, will give the middle west an outlet to the sea.

Dixon Would Benefit
The success of Congressman Buckbee's plans would have far reaching results and would necessarily be of great benefit to Dixon, and of course all the territory along the river. Dixon industries, all farmers using Dixon as a shipping point, and all residents would benefit from greatly reduced freight rates on certain commodities. Coal shipments alone would effect enormous saving.

LaSalle Residence Housed Distillery
LaSalle, Ill., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Deputy Sheriffs raided a residence here yesterday and confiscated a huge alcohol distillery described as one of the largest ever uncovered in this vicinity. The distillery, with 15,000 gallons of sugar mash bubbling in three concrete vats, concealed in an excavation beneath the frame dwelling, was in operation when the raiding squad arrived. The operator, said by authorities to be Mike Maura, for whom a state warrant had been issued, was not located.

The deputies were of the opinion that Maura had been operating liquor plants here for months, moving his equipment from one residence to another to cover his trail.

The distillery was capable of turning out 200 gallons of alcohol each day and was believed to have been one of the principal sources of the city liquor. The raid on the Maura place was based upon evidence gathered by one of Sheriff Floyd Clark's under-cover agents.

RICH INDIAN'S FORTUNE MUST BE RETURNED

Government Wins Suit To Recover More Than Million

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Federal government today was faced with the task of reassembling the scattered fortune of Jackson Barnett, incompetent Oklahoma Creek Indian, who eight years ago gave with a thumbprint signature more than $1,000,000 in liberty bonds to charitable institutions and his white wife.

The order which will effect return of the fortune to the government came yesterday in a decision handed down by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Tenth District, holding that transfer of the huge sum to other parties was illegal, as it was held in trust by the government as guardian of Barnett.

The ruling came in a suit brought by the government against Marshall L. Mott, Washington lawyer, seeking return of $15,000 paid him as attorney's fees for handling phases of the transfer.

Actions pending in California and Kansas courts seeking return of small fortunes given by Barnett to his wife and Harold McGugin of Coffeyville, Kas., Mrs. Barnett's attorney, are expected to be settled in accordance with the precedent established by the Appellate Court.

Mrs. Barnett was given $550,000 of which she paid $150,000 to McGugin. The other half of the Indian's fortune, $550,000, was given to the Baptist Home Mission Society of New York. The Federal District Court of New York subsequently ordered the society to return that amount to the government.

MILLIONAIRE TO TELL STORY OF HIS DUAL LOVES
Two Women Reaffirm Their Love For Hutchinson

Los Angeles, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Samuel G. Hutchinson, millionaire Chicago film distributor, was ready to tell from the witness stand here today his story of how two women, each unaware of existence of the other, had loved him for twenty years.

Hutchinson yesterday sat in the courtroom where his wife, Mrs. Mattie Deane Hutchinson, Chicago society leader, is suing Mrs. C. P. Taylor for $300,000 on a charge of alienation of affections, and heard both women reaffirm their love for him.

Mrs. Taylor, who testified she met Hutchinson in 1908 and did not know he was married until long after the birth of their first child, Jane, now 18 years old, answered "I do, oh, I do," when asked in cross examination if she still loved the film distributor.

A short time later Mrs. Hutchinson, in tears, said: "Yes I love him. I still love my husband."

Mrs. Hutchinson told in detail of her life with Hutchinson from the date of her marriage when he was working in a bank for $65 a month to the time twelve years later when wealth came after he entered the film distributing business with A. C. Roebuck, of Sears, Roebuck & Company.

She told of the discovery of her husband's double life when she found letters addressed to Cornelius P. Taylor, the name he assumed in his life with Mrs. Taylor, in his pockets. She became suspicious late in 1927, she said, and trailed her husband to the home of Mrs. Taylor. She followed him there repeatedly before she finally questioned him concerning the visits and the woman.

Mrs. Taylor had testified she met Hutchinson in Valparaiso, Ind., at the time he was just starting his film enterprise, and fell in love with him.

INVESTIGATOR SAYS NEGRO ADMITTED CRIME

Ruse Adopted By Sheriff To Get Story Of Assault

An attempt to prevent any testimony pertaining to an alleged confession made by William McReynolds, local Negro, to Special Investigator Ralph Russell of the sheriff's office, that he robbed the Claude Horton garage and later beat Clarence Shults over the head with a three-pound sledge hammer at the River-view garage, coming before the jury proved fruitless in the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon. The jury was excused while the entire afternoon session was devoted to the argument to prevent the alleged confession being recited before the jury. Late in the afternoon Judge Harry Edwards ruled that Russell's testimony would stand, but that of Deputy Sheriff's John Auchstetter of Sublette and Stoddard Danekas of Reynolds township, would not stand.

From the testimony, it appeared that on the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 10, McReynolds was delivered to the county jail from the city hall because of failure to furnish bond and a continuance was granted when he was charged with the robbery of the Horton garage on the same morning of the Shults assault. Sheriff Miller, one of his deputies talked with McReynolds and endeavored to have him make a statement, explaining that the truth with the best in the event of any violation of the law. McReynolds refused to make any admissions and the officers left him. Later in the night, Ralph Russell, special investigator working out of the office of Sheriff Miller was placed in the east side of the county jail, where McReynolds was confined, supposedly as a Chicago automobile thief.

Investigator Locked Up.
Russell remained in the cell block with McReynolds until Friday morning. Thursday night, two deputies came to the jail, both unknown to McReynolds and Russell, to be taken to the witness stand here today his story of how two women, each unaware of existence of the other, had loved him for twenty years.

Farmers Pressed By Insurance Firms

Washington, Jan. 29.—(UP)—President Hoover was informed by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde today that many American farmers are being embarrassed financially by the alleged demands of life insurance companies for more collateral and higher interest rates on farm loans.

Numerous letters from farmers Hyde said after the conference, informed him the insurance companies were pressing for payments of loans, demanding further securities and more interest. Farm loans now total around $9,000,000,000, of which insurance companies hold about $2,000,000,000, he explained.

"Moral suasion" is the only weapon the government has to fight this financial pressure, Hyde said, adding he thought it unwise for the insurance companies to foreclose on land which they would find difficult to sell.

The insurance companies, while denying they are concerted, crowding point out that many of their loans were made at a time of inflated land values, Hyde said.

Little Hope Left For Trapped Diver

Quebec, Jan. 29.—(AP)—With little hope that they would find Peter Trans, a diver, alive, rescuers today renewed their efforts to bring him from the depths of the St. Lawrence river where he had been trapped since Monday.

Trans went down to inspect the base of a cofferdam at Riviere Des Outardes, where a dam is under construction. Soon after submerging he became caught on a spike projecting from the cribbing. When efforts to bring him to the surface failed, a call was sent to Quebec for a rescue diver. Two divers started in an airplane but were delayed yesterday by snow storms.

Alr has been pumped to Trans continually but it was feared he had succumbed to the exposure in the cold water.

Bolivar, Tenn., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Convicted of attacking a 15-year-old white girl by a jury which deliberated less than ten minutes, Carey Gunn, 21, a Negro, today faced death in the electric chair on March 14.

county jail. Russell cursed the sheriff, he said, and he and Russell talked briefly that evening. Before Russell had been placed in the same cell block, Sheriff Miller and Deputy Fulmer came into the corridor to talk with him, McReynolds said.

At this point of his narrative he told of a threat made by Sheriff Miller to the effect that mob was forming down town to come for him, and added that the Sheriff told him that if he had his way about it, that he would be "treated the same as southern Negroes and would be strung up." This testimony was later denied when the two officers took the stand and it was shown that no threats were made and no promises given, but that McReynolds was asked for a statement, which he refused.

Denied Confession.
McReynolds continued hastily to reiterate some of the talks between himself and Russell, relating to "Big Tim," whom he thought to be a Chicago gang leader, and the prospects for escape. He told of the visit of two men, strange to him at the county jail and their questions to him of his knowledge of automobile repairing and driving as he had been previous and explaining reasons for his resignation, issued an official note which concluded:

"And now to rest a little, to recover my health. Two thousand three hundred and twenty-six days have been filled with iniquity, responsibility and labor! But rested, then if God wishes, I shall return to serve Spain until I die!"

He then expressed the belief it would be necessary for the government to have some form of dictatorship to continue governing the country during the next few years. He pledged his personal loyalty to King Alfonso and declared he welcomed the incoming government.

Streets and cafes were crowded throughout the night with people excitedly discussing the situation.

Madrid newspapers, freed of censorship after more than six years, found so much to say regarding the cabinet crisis that their regular editions were not sufficient. Extra editions at midnight handled the overflow of copy.

Issue Not Clear.
The events which led to resignation of General Primo de Rivera and the naming of a new Premier still were not clear today, although a general idea could be gained of what had happened.

Sunday morning at 4 a. m. the Dictator, excited by continued criticism of his regime, reports of defections in the army and navy, and the student unrest in Madrid, where the National University had been closed, told reporters he was asking 17 high army and navy officers to say if he should resign.

He conferred later with King Alfonso and was understood to have met criticism, tact perhaps, from both the crown and his colleagues in the cabinet, it being pointed out that he had in a sense gone over the King's head.

Some of the military figures declared that while they would always support any government designated by the crown they believed it inadvisable for that of General Primo de Rivera to continue further.

The replies surprised the Premier, who had counted upon the loyalty of the military heads, all of whom owed their posts to him.

He discussed the situation with his colleagues on the cabinet yesterday, and late in the afternoon left them to go to the palace and submit his resignation to King Alfonso.

Tax Commission Is Called Down By Gov.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Reasons for the delay of the State Tax Commission in certifying capital stock and railroad assessments to County Clerks were demanded by Governor Louis L. Emmerson today in a telegram to William H. Malone, Chicago, Chairman of the Tax Commission.

Governor Emmerson's action was prompted by complaints received here from numerous County Clerks. As a result of the slowness of the Commission in certifying these assessments, many counties of the state find themselves in financial straits, the County Clerks advised the Governor.

The County Clerks cannot extend their taxes until the State Tax Commission acts.

"Weather" Bandit Stole Overcoats

Lake Forest, Ill., Jan. 29.—(UP)—A "weather" bandit invaded the Gold Coast yesterday when the home of A. D. Lasker, former head of the U. S. Shipping Board, was entered and two valuable overcoats were taken. The thief purloined a polo coat valued at $1,000 and another coat valued at $350. A huge pile of silverware, trinkets, vases and other articles were left in the center of a room, but the burglar evidently was mindful of the near zero weather outside and left the intended plunder behind, content with the two warm overcoats.

been denied the right of counsel, that the statements were unworthy of belief and at the time the defendant was in jail with no warrant having been sworn out for his detention. Attorney Brooks added that McReynolds had not been taken immediately before a Justice of the Peace for a hearing, that he had been confined in the city and county jails since December 9 until the grand jury met without a charge being preferred.

Judge Edwards asked defense counsel twice if they had completed their objections and then ruled on the long debate. The court ruled that the testimony of Deputies Auchstetter and Danekas would not be permitted to go to the jury, the defendants words, "I sure did," in response to a question whether he had robbed a garage and struck a man over the head with a hammer, there was no identification shown. The indictment in that regard was vague and indefinite, Judge Edwards said.

With regard to Russell's testimony that McReynolds struck Shults over the head with a hammer while he held him by the collar and robbed the Horton garage, the court ruled this evidence admissible.

Objection Overruled.
"In this I am of the opinion that the defendant McReynolds has been definitely identified by Russell. It is true that artifice, ruse and strategy were employed, but no authority has been cited in objection to this point and the objection as pertains to Russell's testimony is overruled."

On Stand This Morning.
When court convened this morning at 9:30, Russell resumed the stand and repeated his story of having secured McReynolds' confession to both the Horton garage robbery and the assault upon Clarence Shults. All reference to the Horton garage robbery was ruled out of the evidence and the investigator remained on the witness stand for almost an hour, undergoing a grilling in the cross examination conducted by Attorney McNemar.

In direct testimony, Russell led up to a point where he told the manner in which McReynolds said he gained entrance through an east window of the garage and escaped in the same manner when the taxicab drove up to the garage. It was expected that the prosecution would place several witnesses on the stand today to explain an investigation in which blood stains were found on the back of an automobile which was directly in front of the window and on the metal framework of the window. Mr. and Mrs. Nemorran Pierre were called by the prosecution when Russell had finished, and told their story of the crap game at their home Saturday evening, December 7 in which McReynolds participated. At noon it was expected that the state would complete its case early this afternoon.

Deputies from the sheriff's office were handed a list of twenty-five character witnesses who were summoned to be present at 10:30, but it was apparent that these would not testify before late afternoon.

The court room was filled to its capacity again this morning when the trial was resumed and many stood in the hallway.

The defense opened with a number of character witnesses shortly before noon today after McReynolds had taken the stand and denied having ever made a confession to Russell or any officers. Defense attorneys expected to have completed their testimony at 2 o'clock.

Threatened Sheriff

Russell's story continued with McReynolds having shown him a thin, long bladed knife, which he kept concealed, and told the investigator he would bury between Sheriff Miller's ribs providing that he, the Sheriff, "gets fresh with me." A knife answering this description was removed from McReynolds' clothing by Sheriff Miller the same day that Russell left the jail. Russell underwent a rapid fire examination by Attorney McNemar, but appeared cool on the witness stand and repeated the alleged confession.

John Auchstetter of Sublette and Stoddard, Danekas of Reynolds township, both deputies of McReynolds, were questioned at some length by the Peoria attorney as to their part in securing the alleged confession on the evening of December 12.

Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber was also called by Attorney McNemar and related the examination of McReynolds at the city hall by both police and State's Attorney Mark C. Keller, his repeated denials of complicity with either crime, and ultimate delivery to the county jail for failure to give bond on a charge of robbing the Horton garage.

Objections Entered.
Attorney McNemar, prompted by his assistant, Attorney Brooks entered a long objection to all of the testimony pertaining to the alleged confession and when he had concluded, Attorney Brooks entered other objections to any testimony being presented to the jury bearing upon alleged statements made by the defendant McReynolds while in the county jail, or any statements claimed to have been made by him to investigator Russell or Deputies Auchstetter and Danekas, for the reason that the defendant had not been advised of his rights, that he was in solitary confinement, that he had

Chicago School Board Turns To N. Y. For Money

Effort Will Be Made To Sell Warrants in Metropolis

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The school board turned to New York today for money with which to pay Chicago school teachers and other employees.

A representative of the school board has been sent east in an effort to sell $50,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants which previously have been refused by Chicago banks.

The city and county governments meanwhile awaited the outcome of conferences with the Citizens' Relief Committee to obtain money with which to meet their past due payrolls. Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the committee, was to return today from Washington.

The committee has $20,000,000 available, the money having been offered by large corporations from funds laid aside by them to meet 1928 taxes, collection of which has been delayed by reassessments. It is this reassessment which is blamed by city, county and school board officials for the present lack of funds.

A further delay in the reassessment was in prospect as a result of the order by the Board of Review yesterday for a new valuation of downtown property.

Both Mayor Thompson and H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, believe a reassessment of downtown property will add $300,000,000 to the property's valuation.

URNS TO LEGISLATURE
By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(UP)—"Big Bill" Thompson, Chicago's cowboy-Yale graduate mayor, handed the city's financial tangle to the state legislature today, admitting, in effect, that it had grown too large for his administration.

Thompson admitted that the city is broke and tottering on the brink of financial disaster.

As a remedy and the only hope for relief for the thousands of city employees who are existing on loan shark money, the Mayor demanded that the Legislature be called into special session and laws passed to lift the city from its morass of almost $300,000,000 debt—a debt the rolls up like a snowball at the rate of almost $50,000 a day.

The Mayor's statement, apparently made under pressure of demands for a definite plan for the legislature to follow.

Race With Death On Frozen Terrain Won

Red River, Hot Spring, Idaho, Jan. 29.—(UP)—A race with death over 29 miles of frozen mountain terrain resulted in victory.

Dr. J. P. Weber, accompanied by a guide and a musher, made a 42 mile trip through huge drift and in sub-zero weather, finding a team of 10 Irish setters, to a mine cabin on Green Mountain where Fred Burke, miner, was suffering from blood poisoning.

Dr. Weber reported Burke out of danger, according to word reaching here.

Continue Search For Fliers' Bodies

Nome, Alaska, Jan. 29.—(AP)—In a bleak Arctic lagoon 90 miles southeast of North Cape, Siberia, searchers today still were digging into the ice-like snow in an effort to find the bodies of Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and his mechanic, Earl Borland, whose plane crashed in a storm November 9 while flying to the fur trading ship Nanuk, icebound at North Cape.

Style Markers Seek To Stabilize Skirts

By DIANA MERRIN
 Fashion Editor
 (Associated Press Feature Service)
 Paris—(AP)—Certain powerful dressmakers have a little pact of Paris of their own. It aims, among other things, to arbitrate international misunderstandings like the proper length of skirts.
 Long skirts have gone far enough in the opinion of most of the important dressmakers.
 Evening dresses are down to the toes or actually touch the floor.
 But in the matter of how long skirts for street and sport wear should be, Paris maintains it has been misunderstood.
 Most of the style makers protest against lengthening of street skirts. They want to see them left as they are right now in the leading establishments, eight to four inches below the knees. They agree that the average woman's daytime clothes must be practical as well as beautiful to succeed.
 Thus street costumes and sport clothes will remain at their present level in next spring's collections, now in preparation for exhibitions.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
 © 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

One of the commonest causes of friction between parents is the matter of staying home from school. Now I realize that I am getting into hot water when I broach this subject—all the more so I realize it because I have been on both sides of the question. No, not on both of the parents' sides—that is trouble enough—but on the side of the mother and the side of the school teacher. I have been both and still am the one.

Indeed, we might call this a sort of three-cornered kettle of dissection, for there is by all means the school to reckon with also.

To begin with, I am going to say quite frankly that, right or wrong, my sympathy now is with the mother. For whether she is right or wrong, she certainly is between the devil and the deep blue sea when it comes to deciding whether a certain weary, none-too-well child of hers needs a day at home now and then.

These poor mothers! Certainly they get no credit for defying the world occasionally in defense of their young. Husbands who come home and demand to know why that "lazy little rascal" hasn't been to classes! Teachers who write notes home to inquire just why Emily or Johnny was not at school when the other children had seen the truant at a window and "certainly when he—or she—was able to be out of bed it seemed that"—etc., etc.

"Tired Spells" Explained
 When one of my girls was quite small, and seemingly the strongest one, too—she took "tired" spell. I usually knew the symptoms in advance; a blinking of the eyes, nervous excitement that would change in a second from smiles to tears, loss of appetite, and then finally a steadily growing lassitude. When this weariness approached, she seemed to need sleep—hours of it—extra sleep.

It wasn't laziness. Perhaps it was an inactive thyroid gland, perhaps intestinal poison, perhaps a reaction from shock not suspected. For don't tell me that a child's world is not full of shocks over and over again, as real as our older world is! Perhaps it was just sheer nervous fatigue from growing. We never knew.

We got her glasses, had her tonsils out—and yet those "tired" spells recurred every so often, for years.

I kept her home those days and let her sleep. There was war usually, all around. Indeed, on account of it I often sent her to school on days when my heart ached for her. But I know that I did what I could and I have never regretted it.

Of course we very often meet up with a dreamy mental lassitude in children that is likely to fool us. Also there is the old excuse of not "feeling well" on a cold winter's morning when bed feels simply too grand to leave. But that is different. I believe a mother honestly knows the child who needs the occasional day off. And I'm with her every time when it's a matter of a stitch in time. A forced child may likely spend a week or so in bed for want of a little rest at the right time.

However, school absence should be avoided as often as possible, and often putting a child to bed immediately upon coming home may accomplish the desired result.

You, no doubt, have heard them in your own home over your own radio some Sunday evening as "The Atwater Kent Quartet" or again as "The Baldwin Singers."

The International Singers are constantly in demand for radio appearances, due to the very high type of program which they sing and which the radio public is demanding now more than ever before.

The four singers comprising this remarkable ensemble are well known artists in the concert field.

They are Victor Edmunds, tenor; George Raseley, tenor; Erwyn Mutch, baritone; and James Davies, basso, all soloists of marked ability, having studied both in this country and abroad with the best masters.

Royal Andrews Merwin, their pianist and arranger, is a grand prize winner of the Music School of Yale University and is also a composer of considerable note.

W. T. Fossett Tips To All Housewives

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29—(UP)—Housewives who suspect they are being "shorted" on the family food supply would do well to heed the following recommendations issued by W. T. Fossett, superintendent of weights and measures.

Buy by weight whenever possible. Watch the zero and loan conditions on scales.

Make the same objection to short weight as short change.

Look for the pink or green state inspection labels.

Be suspicious of any unusual or freak weighting or measuring device.

CITIES OF THE FUTURE.

By 1980 there will be two races, aristocrats and groundlings, inhabiting New York.

The aristocrats will live 40 stories and more above the ground and will never come down to earth, literally or figuratively. The groundlings, on the other hand, will do the work of the world and will live in tunnels and crypts below ground, never getting a peek at the sun.

All of this is the prediction of Dr. John Dewey, Columbia University's famous philosopher, who believes that the skyscraper is going to revolutionize society. The sky-dwelling aristocrats, he says, will develop a religion based on sun-worship, because of their proximity to the sun; the groundlings will invent a religion related to the ancient conceptions of Hades.

This is an interesting picture, even if slightly dizzy. Dr. Dewey is known as a sober and weighty thinker. But on this occasion one is compelled to remark that he has been indulging in a gaudy pipe dream.

Besides, it is not a new pipe dream. H. G. Wells painted the same picture upwards of 20 years ago in his imaginative novel, "The Time Machine." To date we do not seem to have progressed any nearer to it, and with all the respect in the world to Dr. Dewey it seems rather obvious that the idea is beginning to set in the other direction.

Skyscrapers are going up rapidly, even where they are not needed; but for every skyscraper that is erected, three new subdivisions are plotted on the outskirts. These magnificent towers of steel are lovely to look at—at least some of them are—but they have not yet eradicated the average man's desire to have a place to himself close to the earth, with room for a tiny garden and a bit of lawn, and they never will; for that desire goes down to the roots of being, and is a very hard thing to down permanently.

If Dr. Dewey's prediction comes true it will simply be because the human race, as a whole, is a great deal dumber than even its severest critics have suspected. For we are just beginning to get into our hands the weapons with which we can make our cities into decent places to live in.

The automobile, the electric train, the express highway and the airplane—these are the things with which we can enable ourselves to live far out on the edge of the city in which we work. If we don't take advantage of them we deserve the fate that Dr. Dewey has outlined for us.

For the city, when all is said and done, is a poor sort of place to live; and the 60-story apartment is the worst that the city has to offer. The poorest suburb, with its untidy streets, its unsightly jerry-built houses and its microscopic lawns, is a better proposition.

SLIPPERY STREETS ARE SAFER.

The chairman of the executive committee of the Public Safety League in Detroit, bemoaning Detroit's high traffic casualty list, suggests ironically that the city flood the streets every day in winter time so that they would be good and slippery.

"During our last seven days of icy pavements," he points out, "not one person was killed. The driver thinks about his own life when it's slippery, and so does the pedestrian. As a result, everyone is more cautious."

All of which seems to indicate that under ordinary conditions we're a pretty thoughtless bunch of motorists. If we always drove as carefully as we do when the pavement is slippery, there would be mighty few fatal automobile accidents.

In a headline over a story on the naval conference, the following words appear: "MacDonald Stunned by Reporter's Query." Just like those British heavyweights; they're knocked out before the fight has started.

Maybe those New Yorkers who rioted to gain admission to a building where a lecture on Einstein's theory of relativity was to be given were merely people who have suffered from too many of them—we mean relatives.

A writer on musical subjects says the jazz music heard in the night clubs takes the edge off the diners' appetite. The prices help a trifle, too.

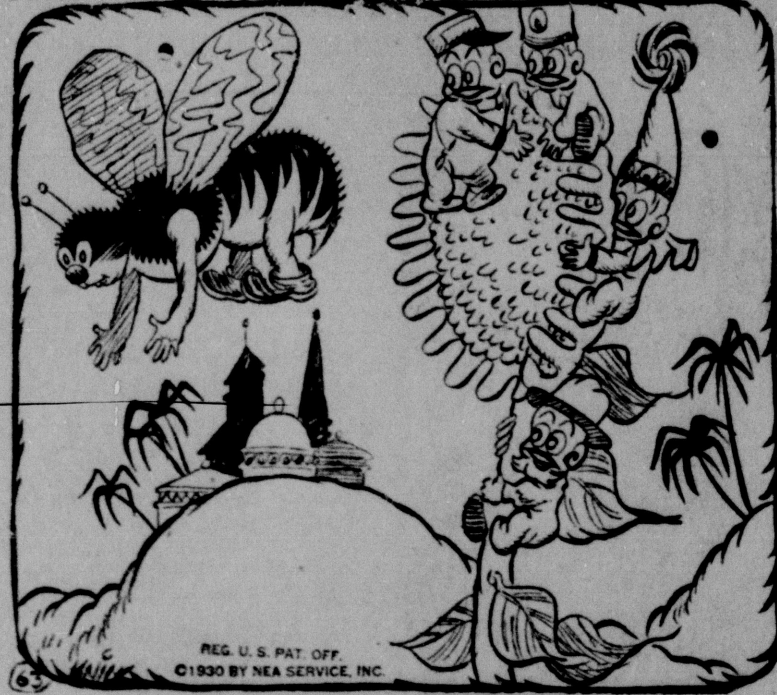

The naval conference keynote probably would have sounded better to some of those attending if it had been pitched in a minor instead of a major scale.

So it's parrot fever! Well, we just had to have some nice epidemic this winter.

Instead of the sun tan complexion, "strawberry and cream" is to be the popular tint this year. Which puts an entirely different face on the matter.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN-PICTURES BY KROCK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The bee sailed onward through the air and not a Tiny seemed to care what happened on this wondrous flight. It was a heap of fun. The bee kept buzzing constantly because it was a bumble bee. Its body shone out beautifully beneath the brilliant sun.

Said Carpy, as he waved his cap. "Oh, listen to the big wings flap. I wonder what would happen if they'd both refuse to go. The thought of it gives me a scare. They are what keeps us in the air. The moment that they ceased to flap, we'd all drop down below."

"Oh, don't you worry," said the bee. "These wondrous wings belong to me and I can keep them working till I'm willing that they stop. I'll keep us all up in the breeze and do it with apparent ease. There isn't any danger, lads, that we will take a flop."

And then it said, "I wonder, boys, if you could stand the buzzing noise of lots and lots of bumble bees. I know where there's a hive. I'll take you there. I have a hunch that you would like to meet the bunch. You'll find there's plenty doing and the hive is much alive."

"Oh, my," snapped Clowny. "You are kind, but won't you kindly change your mind? Some of the bees might sting us. We would rather stay away." "All right," replied the friendly bee. "You do not have to go with me. It's true they might be careless and just sting you all for play."

Just then they lit upon a flower. "We'll rest here for a half an hour," exclaimed the bee. "And then I'll sip some honey nice and sweet." But, when the wind began to blow, the bee cried out, "Oh, I must go!" And then it flew and left the Tinsies standing on their feet.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

MCKINLEY'S BIRTH

On January 29, 1843, William McKinley, 29th president of the United States, was born at Niles, Ohio.

As the seventh in a family of nine children, McKinley was obliged to enter at an early age the iron industry, the trade of his father. He studied at Allegheny College, but left it to teach school.

Deserting the class room to enlist at the outbreak of the Civil War, McKinley served with such distinction with the Union army that he was mustered out a major.

After studying law, and passing the bar, he attracted considerable attention by campaigning for Rutherford Hayes, who was running for governor of Ohio. As a result, McKinley was elected to Congress and served seven consecutive terms in the lower house.

In 1891, he was elected governor of Ohio, and again his work attracted attention. When the Republicans convened at St. Louis to nominate a candidate for president, McKinley was easily the choice.

The outstanding events which marked McKinley's first administration as president were the Spanish War and the subsequent acquisition of Porto Rico, the Philippines and the Island of Guam.

The president was re-elected, but his second term was cut short by an assassin's bullet. His death plunged the nation in deep grief.

Basketball

The Invitation Tournament held in the new gym of the school proved to be a success in every way.

Steward and Paw Paw Lights met in the first round of Friday night and Steward's superior team work and their running attack was too much for their opponents, the final score being 25 to 8. The home team met their ancient rivals from Lee who had defeated them twice previously. The local boys who had lost seven consecutive games began to function as a team with the result that the Lee boys were counted out 25 to 16.

Saturday afternoon the losers of the first game met, Paw Paw overwhelming Lee by a score of 30 to 9. In the second game, the two winners of the evening before, Steward and Compton played the best game of the tournament. In this game the local boys teamwork continued to work so well that at the half, Compton was leading 13 to 9. In the second half, however, Steward forged ahead and won 27 to 17. Compton and Lee took the floor in the first game of the evening session to decide who belonged in last place. This home team who were as tired as were their adversaries, still held in reserve enough push to come out victors by a score of 19 to 16. The championship game between Paw Paw and Steward was fast and furious. Steward botained an early lead and were never headed, although when the final gong sounded Paw Paw was still shooting desperately at the basket. The final score was 24 to 14. It was the consensus of opinion that the team from Steward, the champions, were just that and would have won from any team present.

It would be very hard to choose any one or two from the local team and say they were the bright and shining stars of Compton, as they all played the best games of the season. Lester Eggers, however, should be mentioned as covering himself with glory. It is rare that a back or standing guard gets many cheers, but Lester certainly did. The home boys were cheered up for the tournament by the appearance of Max Burley on the floor for the first time this season. Of course, his lack of practice and his physical condition forbade his being used in complete games, but while he was in the game he played as well or better than in previous seasons. Three games in less than 24 hours is a severe strain and an effort was made to distribute the rest periods among as many as possible.

The referee, J. P. Campbell, gave great satisfaction by his handling of the whole tournament. At the close he was asked to choose an All-Star team. His choice follows:

Guards
Eggers C
Lazier S
Ensminger PP
Kehn PP
Centers
Ulrey PP
Bettel S
Forwards
Oakland S
Mireley C
Mullins L
Daum S
The gym will not be in use for two weeks, as the new floor furnished by the local American Legion Post is being installed.

Thereafter, the basketball fans will have plenty of chances to watch. The high school team has three games to play before their season ends March 6 at the District Tournament.

Baseball Gossip

By L. S. CUMERON
United Press Staff Correspondent.
New York, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Although New York Yankee officials declare Manager Bob Shawkey's hurried trip from Miami, Fla., is prompted by his desire to attend the annual Baseball Writers' dinner here Sunday a conference between Shawkey, Secretary Ed Barrow and Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, has been scheduled for Friday.
Ruppert is anxious to discuss the Babe Ruth situation, and it is expected an official announcement will be made after the meeting.
Ruth has rejected the Yankee offer of a two-year contract at $75,000 a season and is demanding $85,000 per season for three years. The Babe's desire to be excused from exhibition games is a major point of disagreement and may delay his signing until after the Yanks finish their spring tour of 32 games.
Waite Hoyt furnished a second problem for the Friday conference. The veteran pitcher has been asked to accept a salary cut, (which Barrow denies is from $16,500 to $10,000) and has joined Ruth as a holdout.
Stanley Marris, manager of the Detroit Tigers, is anxious to secure Hoyt and it is reported the Yanks have been trying to make a deal whereby they would secure Pitcher Owen Carroll and Outfielder Harry Rice for Hoyt. This report has been denied by both clubs.
Tom Clark has been engaged by the New York Giants to coach young pitchers at their San Antonio training camp. Last season he managed the Chambersburg club of the Blue Ridge League.
Three American League clubs will number their players this season. Cleveland and Washington having adopted the plan introduced by the Yankees last season.
Twenty of the 38 New York Giant players have returned their 1930 contracts. Fred Fitzsimmons, big left handed pitcher, is the latest addition. Bill Walker, the only announced holdout, was offered an increase over his 1929 salary but considered it inadequate.
Directors of the Brooklyn National League baseball club will meet next week in an attempt to agree on the selection of a 1930 president and manager.

One of the most enthusiastic of those engaged in the hunt for a "lion" in Washington, D. C., is Walter Johnson, left, former big league pitching star and present manager of the Washington Senators. "Rock" Johnson's hunting dog, also is getting a thrill out of the search for the "lion," which has attacked livestock and terrorized natives of the capital. Winsor Adams, right, game warden and friend of Johnson's, identified tracks left by the animal as those of a mountain lion.

Scott's farewell message was a boast that he would knock out Sharkey.

Carnera's 70-Second Victory

That does it! To new heights rose the mighty Sig. Primo Carnera of Italy—scrapper among pugilists—when, as pictured above, he lumbered to a corner while "Big Boy" Peterson of Minneapolis, vainly tried to rise before Referee Jack O'Sullivan counted him out. Madison Square Garden, New York, was jammed with curious fans who were entertained with just 70 seconds of freakish fighting. Peterson went down three times in rapid succession before the gigantic Italian completely dazed him with a right hook to the jaw.

Pan-American Golf Players Are Paired

Edgewater Park, Miss., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Competitors in the Pan-American Amateur Golf tournament were paired today for match play.
In the upper bracket, Russ Martin of Chicago, who was medalist in the qualifying round with a one over par score of 73, was pitted against Don Armstrong of Aurora, Ill. Other pairings in the same bracket were Johnny Lehman, Chicago, and Walter C. Scheerer, Mobile, Ala., and Jack Westland, French amateur champion, and H. F. Bowler, Chicago.
Chick Evans, Chicago, veteran finished third yesterday with a score of 76, and was matched against Henry Hafer of Chicago who shot an 81 in the first round.
The lower bracket brought together G. Fred Lamprecht, New Orleans, who pushed Martin hard yesterday with a 75, and Elmer Cozard, Chicago. Harry Pritchett, Birney, tackled Gus Novotny, Chicago, Al Welch, Biloxi, met Frank Just in Chicago, and Lee Schneider, Oshkosh, Wis., took on Sam Perry, Birmingham.

Last night, eleven days after Leo Lonski, the "Aberdeen assassin," had exchanged round house rights and lefts for 10 rounds with James Braddock, the rugged light-heavyweight from Jersey City, the Illinois state athletic commission revealed that an error had been made by the referee and that Lonski was entitled to the decision instead of a draw.
The ruling was made official and the many fans, who wagged heavily on the outcome of the match, found themselves receiving or paying out as the unexpected ruling dictated.
Undue excitement and poor arithmetic on the part of the referee, Davey Miller, was blamed for the mix-up by the commission. At the conclusion of the fight, one judge voted for Lonski, another voted for Braddock, while Miller called the match a draw with his deciding vote.
The decision most of whom believed Lonski to be the winner by a wide margin even though he was floored once. The next day, Secretary Walter George of the commission examined the score sheets of the judges and referee, the commission's explanation said, and discovered that while the judges had totaled their points correctly that Referee Miller had made a mistake, his tally sheet showing four rounds for Lonski, two for Braddock and four even.
"Miller was out of the city," added the commission's statement "so nothing could be done until his return. As soon as he did return he inspected it, discovered his error and was anxious to correct it. Thus, the corrected card gives two votes for Lonski and one for Braddock. Hence Lonski is hereby ruled the winner by a decision."

Sutton To Attempt Comeback At Game

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(AP)—George Butler Sutton, the billiard player with the fancy goatee and flowing mustache who won the 182 ball-line championship more than a decade ago, is attempting a comeback. He has removed his goatee and mustache, too, as he wants to appear much younger than his 60 odd years.
"You must look younger these days if you hope to get work or billiard opponents," he explained. "I used to be, you had to look old."
Sutton has entered the national ball-line tournament to be held next month in St. Louis.

COMIC DECISION BY N. Y. BOXING COMMISSIONERS

Lords Of Ring Matches Pull Another One For The Book

BY DIXON STEWART.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
New York, Jan. 29.—(UP)—The comic decision of the New York boxing commission that Johnny Risko, who has battled the largest, toughest, and ablest of present day fighters, is too small to meet Vittorio Campolo, Argentine heavyweight, has aroused the ire of President W. F. Carey of Madison Square Garden.
Carey, when notified that the commission had banned the Campolo-Risko match, at the garden, Feb. 7, said he would appear before the commission Friday to demand that the action be rescinded. If the commission refuses, he said, the garden would take action to test the board's authority to bar matches arranged by promoters.
Commissioner William Muldoon is reported to have opposed the Campolo-Risko bout because Risko was "too small" and because he feared such a match might be a repetition of the one-sided Campolo-Heenebout, last summer. Incidentally the Campolo-Heenebout was one of the best seen in New York during 1929.

Campolo weighs 227 pounds and would have a 34-pound advantage over Risko. In his only three American bouts the Argentinean lost to Phil Scott, knocked out Heenebut on a foul from Arthur Lekub.
Risko holds decisions over Scott and Jack Sharkey and was knocked out by Max Schmeling, the third entrant in the current heavyweight championship tourney. He has beaten Paulino, Otto Von Porat, Ernie Schaff and George Godfrey the 250-pound Pennsylvania Negro.
Apparently the commission was disappointed with the match which it sanctioned between the 269 pound "Pushover" Peterson, and intends to establish a super heavyweight class refusing to let the 200-pounders mix with the real big fellows.

Pre-Season Games Between The Majors

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The two major leagues will have plenty of opportunity for a pre-world series debate as to their superiority this spring. They will clash in 82 inter-league exhibition games prior to the opening of their championship seasons, April 15.
The world's championship Philadelphia Athletics lead as in 1929 with 23 games with teams from the senior circuit, while the Chicago White Sox come next with 17, all with the New York Giants. The Athletics have seven games scheduled with the Phillies, two in Florida and five in Philadelphia. They also encounter the St. Louis Cardinals in four games, the Boston Braves in six.

CALIFORNIA WANTS MEET
New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The 1932 track and field championships of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America will be held in the new University of California stadium at Berkeley. If invitations extended by the universities of Southern California, California and Stanford are accepted.
Eastern members of the association look with favor upon the invitation which was accompanied by a guarantee of $65,000 to help defray expenses of visiting teams.
The meet would be held late in June or early in July, just before the Olympic games for which the intercollegiate could serve as a preliminary tryout.

PEKING MAN IS MOST IMPORTANT OF HUMAN LINKS

Scientist Tells Value Of Discovery Made in Sandstone Pit

(Editor's Note: When scientists recently unearthed a complete skull from a sandstone pit 30 miles from Peking, China, they furnished the world with the most important human link so far discovered, Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews believes. Andrews recently placed the age of the skull at 1,000,000 years. In the following article Andrews relates the significance of the skull belonging to the "Peking" or "Peking man".)

By DR. ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS
Written for The United Press
Peking, China, Jan. 29—(UP)—The Peking man is without question the most important known link in the whole broken chain of human ancestry. The discoverers are to be congratulated.

The layman can hardly wax enthusiastic about that shell of brown bone. It does not seem so different to untrained eyes from any other skull. But it is difficult for a scientist to discuss it without using superlatives. Science has now for the first time a very primitive human cranium which is complete; one in which the bones are in their original positions, uncrushed, not even distorted.

When one thinks of the almost pitiful fragments of other primitive human skulls which have been studied for so many weary hours, this super specimen seems like an embarrassment of riches.

It may be the most ancient type. It is the first of which the geological age and position are positively known. It is the only one which was studied from the moment of its discovery and removed by trained observers.

Had Begun To Think
In a short time, Dr. Davidson Black, Canadian scientist, will tell us exactly the brain capacity of the Peking man. He will make a cast of the interior of the skull. From studying this perfect reproduction of the brain, he will know just how far on the road to human intelligence the Peking man had gone.

The swelling in the forehead promises interesting results. Already the Peking man had begun to think. Not only will this discovery furnish much new information as to the progress of human evolution, but it will settle many disputed points. For instance, the association of the ape-like jaw of the Pit-down man with the skull fragments gave rise to a scientific controversy that raged for years. It is rather satisfying to find that the Peking man had a similar jaw.

The Peking man lived in the very beginning of the ice age. Already at that remote period he had advanced far along the road of human development. That means that the ancestral stock from which he sprang had started long ago, certainly in the early pliocene, possibly in the miocene. One method which has recently found wide acceptance would put the beginning of the miocene period at 19,000,000 years ago.

Another theory which the Peking man tends to support is the central Asian origin of the human family. The Peking man is a long way from being the missing link, if one must use that unsatisfactory term. He is a missing link, but the remote progenitors of man will be found in much older strata. The exact place is uncertain, but I am convinced that it will be somewhere on the Asiatic plateau and I favor Mongolia.

Alleged Slayers Of Officer Arraigned

New Castle, Pa., Jan. 28—(AP)—Plea of not guilty to charges of murder, manslaughter, felonious assault and battery, and highway robbery were made today by Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, recently returned here from Phoenix, Arizona, when they were arraigned in connection with the killing of Corporal Brady Paul, member of the Pennsylvania State highway patrol. The man and woman were held without bail. No testimony was taken at the arraignment and the defendants were not represented by counsel. Preliminary hearing will be held this week. District Attorney John Power said.

A strong guard accompanied Mrs. Schroeder and Dague from the county jail to the office of an alderman. It was the first of the prisoners had been out of the jail since they were brought here last Friday from Arizona, where they were captured after a gun battle with county officers.

FARMERS MEET IN CAPITAL TO FRAME POLICIES

Annual Institute Of I. A. A. Has Great Program

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29—(UP)—Farmers of Illinois, pioneers in the battle to win for the agricultural industry fitting compensations for its efforts, gathered under the banner of the Illinois Agricultural Association's annual convention here today to prepare to blaze a new path to greater rewards for American farmers.

Encouraged by success in 1929 to which leaders refer as "the greatest year in the history of farm achievement," farmer delegates, and a conservative estimate places the number at 1,500 met to discuss plans for 1930 during which year farmers' efforts are expected to center in a fight for "equalization of taxes" and spreading of the farm cooperative movement.

Want Equalization
One of the things which is expected to come out of this convention is a proposal which will ask greater equalization of valuations of farm lands, which, farmers claim, are assessed at a higher percentage than that of other property.

Just how the delegates to the convention propose to work this out has not been determined but one suggestion is a proposal for a state tax on personal incomes.

Today was devoted to committee sessions, the convention proper not opening until tomorrow morning, and the most important session was that of the resolutions committee which will consider various resolutions to be submitted to the convention.

Delegates will hear two of the country's foremost agriculturists address them during the convention.

Lowden, Hyde Speakers
They are former Governor Frank O. Lowden and Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture in President Hoover's cabinet.

Lowden will talk tomorrow evening and Hyde will address the farmers Friday afternoon.

Boat talks are considered of such importance to the country at large that they will be broadcast over a national radio chain.

In addition to the committee sessions, executives of the cooperative organizations sponsored by the associations met to receive annual reports and elect officers.

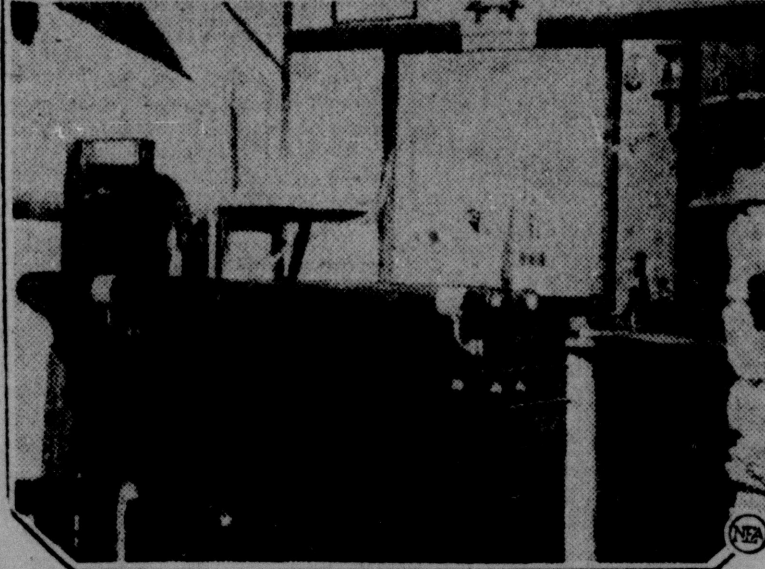

Among these cooperatives were the Illinois Agricultural Holding Company; The Illinois Agricultural Mutual Insurance Co.; The Country Life Insurance Company; Illinois Agricultural Cooperatives Association; Illinois Farm Bureau Security Association; and the Illinois Farm Bureau Baseball League.

A business session was held this afternoon at which delegates presented credentials.

Tonight presidents of more than ninety more than ninety farm bureaus, which have a total membership of approximately 70,000, will hold their annual dinner.

Tomorrow's Session
At tomorrow's opening session Earl C. Smith, Detroit, Ill., president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, will make its annual address. G. E. Metzger, secretary of the organization, and R. A. Cowles, treasurer, will make their annual reports and appointments of committee will be announced by Smith.

Smith's address is expected to lay down the policy which the association will seek to carry out this year. Tomorrow afternoon various conference programs will be held, at which time national legislation, especially the Federal Farm Act, Federal Farm Board and the tariff bill will be discussed. Other topics to be considered for discussion include those pertaining to transportation, state legislation, public utilities, cooperative marketing, business agreements, and other dealings with the home and the community.

Former Governor Frank O. Lowden will deliver the principal address at the annual banquet of the organization which will be held in the State Arsenal tomorrow evening.

POET'S CORNER

A COLD-WATER SONG FOR THE PEOPLE

Prohibitionists may safely partake of it; it hasn't a particle of spirit in it:

'Come O ye people, one and all,
And help us roll the tem'prance ball;

Now is the time, O every one,
To stop the sale of rum.

Next election day.

'Then is the time to come in flocks,
And rally round the ballot-box.

The girls will march in lovely files,
And strew the way with pinks and smiles.

Next election day.

'I see a large and respected host,
Come marching up the water coast.

Behold how sweet and smooth they glide,
With sober lovers by their side.

Next election day.

'They are old enough to vote,
We'll make a great commotion.

We'll sweep this land of hooch strong,
From ocean unto ocean.'

Next election day.

ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS TO BE "BONE DRY"

Those Opposed To Prohibition Will Not Be Appointed

Washington, Jan. 28—(AP)—Habitual drinkers and those definitely opposed to prohibition on principle are considered unsuitable by the Hoover administration for federal offices directly connected with the prosecution of violators of the dry statutes.

In addition, the personal views and practices of applicants for appointment or reappointment as United States Attorneys and Marshals are being thoroughly investigated before appointments are recommended to the President by the Justice Department.

This was revealed by Attorney General Mitchell in a letter submitted to the House Expenditures committee, which is considering the Williamson bill to consolidate the government's enforcement and prosecuting agencies in the Department of Justice.

The letter had been written to a friend of the Attorney General, whose name was withheld, and dealt only with Attorneys and Marshals, although it is assumed that Mitchell will follow the same policy in selecting men for the enforcement unit when that agency is transferred to his jurisdiction.

FRED STONE OF STAGE FAME IS DANCING AGAIN

Recovery From Injuries In Crash of Plane Complete

BY BOYD LEWIS
United Press Staff Correspondent

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 29—(UP)—Fred Stone has kept his promise to dance again, and astounded science.

When the famous stage star broke both his legs and half the other bones in his body in an airplane crash at New London 18 months ago, surgeons shook their heads and said: "You may live; you never will dance again."

But Fred Stone glared up through the bandages that covered all but one eye and whispered: "I don't want to live if I can't dance—but I'm going to dance!"

He danced again last night in the opening performance of "Ripples" and gave the world another of those rare exhibitions of the curative powers of a brave heart and the will to win.

Two surgeons who fought a successful battle to save Fred Stone's life saw their patient win thunderous applause with breath-taking, acrobatic feats. He danced with a youthful abandon that belied the grey that has sifted into his curly locks in nearly 40 years back of the footlights.

Hard To Believe
It was hard for the audience to believe that the owner of those flying legs and twinkling heels recently had been overjoyed to discover he could wiggle his toes through the hip-high plaster casts that encased both his shattered legs.

Near the end of the play, Fred Stone took the audience into his confidence, revealing the "inside story" of his airplane accident, confessing he was through for good as a pilot, and thanking the public whose generous sympathy had bolstered his courage in the long fight back to health.

"You can't learn another man's job in 40 hours," he said. "I thought I could. I was stunting too near the ground—cocky, you know. When I woke up I was in a plaster cast up to my chest. I've been in some tough casts before, but this was the toughest. My legs were hung from the ceiling so long I almost thought I was a chandelier."

"Don't think I'm knocking aviation. It's here to stay—so long as it stays up. I'd love to fly again (he stepped back and peered into the wings) but there are four good reasons why I shan't—three of them on this stage tonight."

"Reasons" On Stage
The "reasons" were Mrs. Stone and his daughters, Dorothy, Paula and Carol. Dorothy starred in "Ripples" and Mrs. Stone and Paula were in the supporting cast.

There was a double thrill for Stone in last night's performance, for in this production, Paula, tall, slim, daughter of the famous dancing Stones, made her footlight debut.

Paula won the applause of the audience while "Daddy," "Mamma," and sister Dorothy peered anxiously from the wings.

Probably the highlight of the evening came when Stone introduced "two new dancing partners with whom I've been working in the hospital." With the aid of a pair of crutches he did a crutch tap dance, one of the most remarkable exhibitions of his dancing career. Midway of the dance he was joined by Dorothy and Paula, also with crutches.

After the show the United Press asked Paula how she felt after her stage debut.

"Wasn't Daddy wonderful?" she exclaimed.

Five-Fold Program For Farmers Urged

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 29—(UP)—A five-fold program for assisting agriculture was outlined in an address here today by James C. Stone, member of the Federal Farm Board.

Promotion of effective marketing of farm products in domestic and foreign commerce, minimizing speculation in farm commodities, prevention of wasteful methods of distribution, encouragement of national co-operatives, and controlling crop surpluses comprise the board's program, he said.

Because it is impossible for the Federal government to deal directly with each of the 6,000,000 American farmers, Stone said the board policy contemplate early organization of all agriculture into a limited number of national marketing co-operative groups. Until this has been accomplished the board will limit its activities to helping individual co-operatives.

A survey to determine how much unproductive land is being used for crop purposes is contemplated by the board, Stone said, and it plans to urge that marginal lands be eliminated from American farms.

Killing Justified Coroner Declares

Venice, Ill., Jan. 28—(UP)—A verdict of justifiable homicide returned by a coroner's jury here last night, absolved Ray T. French, 33, Bloomington, Ill., of the killing of Leroy F. Rudder, 32, also of Bloomington. Rudder was shot to death in a hotel here last Friday.

Testimony presented revealed that marital trouble had made the two men unfriendly, and when they met in the washroom of the hotel, Rudder advanced on French with a drawn knife. French drew a revolver and shot Rudder three times. Both men were brakenmen and had just come in from their runs. Hilton Taylor, also a brakeman, was in the washroom at the time of the shooting and substantiated French's story.

Gotham Society's Beaux Arts Ball Cost Quarter of a Million

The time was the present and the place was Manhattan, but society leaders and famed artists, garbed in glamorous costumes like those worn by the social registerites pictured above, recaptured the spirit of the Renaissance at New York's lavish Beaux Arts Ball, said to have cost $250,000. Mrs. Philip Randolph, left, appeared as one of the Medici, in a sumptuous medieval costume of full long skirt, with a train and a colorful fitted jacket of brocade, edged in wide bands of ermine. Herman C. Huffer, Jr., center, as a guest at the English court, was in royal velvet garb with gold lace trim and fine linen ruffles. Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, right, was "at the court of France" in a striking costume of figured chiffon, with black ostrich tips trimming her headgear—and ropes of the famous, modern-day Vanderbilt pearls.

Oklahoman Evened Score With Enemy

Temple, Okla., Jan. 28—(UP)—In silence broken only by the staccato bark of his six shooter, Jim Graham evened up the score with Harry Adair as the latter sat in a barber's chair being shaved today.

No words were needed when Graham walked into the barber shop. He waited calmly until the barber had finished shaving Adair and lifted the towel from his face. Then he started shooting. Adair was killed instantly.

INSPECTION OF MEASURES AND WEIGHTS IS ON

State Inspectors To Check Up In Smaller Towns

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—(UP)—The annual check up of all places in the state where merchandise is sold by pounds, quarts or by yards, is being made by inspectors from the state Department of Trade and Commerce, according to an announcement by Director Leo H. Lowe here today.

The twelve inspectors, Lowe said are visiting cities with population of less than 25,000. Travelling in trucks, each inspector carries weights each with a handle, ranging from 50 pound weights to the tiniest, as well as liquid measures of various capacities.

Places visited consist chiefly of grocery stores, gasoline stations, drug stores, elevators and coal scales. The work is under the direction of W. T. Fossett, superintendent of the Division of Standards.

Under the law those cities with a population of 25,000 or more supervise inspection of their own weights and measures.

Principal cities which do not come under state supervision include the following: Bloomington, Chicago, Decatur, East St. Louis, Elgin, Peoria, Rockford, Springfield, Aurora, Danville, Evanston, Joliet, Moline, Oak Park, Quincy and Rock Island. This list is expected to see several additions when the 1930 federal census is completed sometime this fall.

Violation of the state law regarding weights and measures carries a penalty ranging from $20 to $500 in fines, accompanied as a court sees fit, by county jail of terms ranging from three months to a year.

Inspection fees range from ten cents to five dollars, with the state empowered, at its own discretion, to make two inspections a year. Most places, however, are inspected but once.

Inaccuracy in a scale or measure automatically causes its condemnation and the dealer merchant is restrained from using it until it has been corrected to give the proper weight or measure.

Names and addresses of the inspectors together with the counties he is assigned to are as follows:

W. A. Carleton, Hinsdale, DuPage county and the south half of Cook county.

Francis J. Beckman, Waukegan; Grundy, Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry, Will and the north half of Cook county.

Fred Schumacker, Sterling; Boone, Carroll, DeKalb, J. C. Davis, Lee, Ogle, Stephenson, Whiteside and Winnebago.

Howard Rapp, Prophetstown; Fulton, Hancock, Henderson, Henry, Knox, McDonough, Mercer, Rock Island and Warren.

Frank T. Scott, Peoria; Peoria Bureau, LaSalle, Livingston, Marshall, Putnam, Stark and Woodford. George A. Ritchey, Mt. Sterling; Adams, Brown, Cass, Logan, Mason, Menard, Morgan, Pike, Schuyler, Scott and Tazewell.

Jesse Bowman, Monticello; Clay, Coles, Cumberland, DeWitt, Effingham, Fayette, Jasper, McLean, Monticello, Macon, Piatt, Richland and Shelby.

C. Randall Bear, Urbana; Champaign, Clark, Crawford, Douglas, Edgar, Ford, Iroquois, Kankakee and Vermilion.

R. C. Hall, Litchfield; Bond, Calhoun, Christian, Greene, Jersey, Macoupin, Montgomery and Sangamon.

E. L. McCracken, Alton; Clinton, Madison, Monroe, Perry, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington.

W. J. Stephenson, Mt. Vernon; Edwards, Franklin, Hamilton, Jefferson, Lawrence, Marion, Wabash, Wayne and White.

M. D. Nesler, Harrisburg; Alexander, Gallatin, Hardin, Jackson, Johnson, Massac, Pope, Pulaski, Saline, Union and Williamson.

Practical Joke Is Fatal To Jokesters

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 28.—(UP)—T. A. Watts died today of wounds received in an attempt to play a practical joke with Miss Cora Brown, who was killed in the episode.

The two were shot Saturday night when they went to the house of Otis Waller, where they lived as man and wife, and jokingly ordered Waller to "stick 'em up." Waller fired before realizing who the couple were, he said, explaining blacksmilers had been threatening his life.

Investigation after the shooting disclosed that Watts was married to an Atlanta woman, and was a "father."

"Sunny Boys"—and Girls—On Florida Sands

Just kiddin'—or maybe teaching himself how to shoot the young idea—was the cameraman at Miami Beach, Fla., when he got the childish notion of taking these pictures of baby bathing beauties for the Dixon Evening Telegraph and NEA Service. "Sunny Boy" of the beach was 3-year-old Dickie Madden, Jr., of Indianapolis, pictured upper left. Young Donald Alwyn Knight, below, of White Plains, N. Y., seems to have been a bit peeved at being caught at his sun-bath. Kids used to be afraid of getting "tanned," but little Suzanne Sturm of New York, shown upper center, evidently enjoys it. The latest beach modes for children are illustrated below, center, by Marilyn and Victor Chartrand (left) of Forest Hills, Long Island, and Ann Schmidt of Chicago. Getting in practice to be a speed king like his dad, Tommy Milton, Jr., son of the famous motor race driver, got a slow start, when as pictured upper right, he steered a turtle across the sands. And imagine the embarrassment of Carol Lyon Johnson of Cincinnati, lower right, when a shoulder strap on her bathing suit broke—right before the camera!

E. S. LONGSTREET, JR., MANAGING EDITOR OF THE ASSURAY PARK (N. J.) PRESS, SAYS:

"Did you ever stop to think that people do not stop to think?"

"The majority of us are too busy or too lazy to form our own opinions and take ready-made, hand-me-down misfits until our intellectual arms and legs are either thrusting forth from elbow or knee length garments or are entirely obscured by flopping loose ends."

"It would seem there is an unwritten Constitutional Amendment against thinking, especially by the common people. Of course, there are a few self-constituted leaders fairly capable of doing all the thinking necessary for the safety of the Nation. The priestcraft assumed the job for the common people in former ages. They have been followed in more or less successful fashion by many newspapers. We are supposed to take, and do take, the mental pap they provide."

"Any original thinker, any protestant against the established order of things is immediately crucified by sonorous voiced 'Bass Drum' advocates of Things-as-They-Are, or prophetic pulpit pounders or hysterical patriotic societies whose watchword is the thoroughly acceptable Americanized version of 'Deutschland Uber Alles.'"

"It matters nothing whether a man is right or wrong in his opinions if he shall have thought them out for himself by a process of reasoning free from hysteria, envy, malice, prejudice and kindred evils."

SPRINTERS WILL FURNISH THRILLS OF COMING SEASON

Many Star Dash Men are Ready For Indoor Track Meets

BY HERBERT W. BARKER

Associated Press Sports Writer
 New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Sprinters, it appears, will furnish most of the thrills of the 1930 indoor track and field season.

With on Nurmi, Wide, Peltzer or Hahn in the immediate offing, the middle distance events, source of most of the sensations in the track world for the last five years, may have to take a back seat, as it were, while the boys who specialize in the short distances do their stuff.

The east has a great trio of dash men in Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown's intercollegiate outdoor champion; Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross, indoor intercollegiate title-holder, and Chet Bowman, Newark A. C. veteran. But they will have to be at top form to make a showing against the invasion of such western stars as George Simpson of Ohio State; Simpson's team-mate, Kriss; and Jack Elder of Notre Dame, as well as the southwestern flash, Cy Leland of Texas Christian.

Simpson, the world's record holder at 100 yards—9 2-5 seconds—has entered the New York A. C. games at Madison Square Garden Feb. 17. Elder, Criss, Bowman, Leland and two Canadians, Johnny Fitzpatrick and Leigh Miller are entered in the sprints of the Millrose A. A. games Feb. 8.

Elder, with a victory over Wildermuth already to his credit this year, makes his second eastern appearance in the St. Joseph's Catholic Club games at Newark tonight. His chief opposition probably will come from Daley. Elder is to run in the Rupert F. Mills sprints series at 50, 60 and 70 yards, distances well suited to the Notre Dame football player. Exceedingly fast off the mark, Elder is a formidable contender in any field at distances under 75 yards. He gave Percy Williams, Olympic sprint champion, his only defeat of his American tour a year ago, and beat out Wildermuth in a close race at the Brooklyn College games this year at 75 yards. On the same evening Wildermuth equalled the indoor records for 60 and 100 meters and consequently was in top form. Fred Sturdy, famous Yale pole vaulter, will make his first appearance of the year against such rivals as Barney Berlinger of Pennsylvania, and Vic Pickard, formerly of Pittsburgh and a member of the 1928 Canadian Olympic team.

Phil Edwards, Ray Conger and Eddie Blake are booked to battle it out in a 1,000 yards scratch race.

Daily Health Talk

HOW LONG SHALL WE LIVE

T. Lyle Hazlett, M. D.,
 East Pittsburgh, Pa.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in the prevention of unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Constant efforts are being systematically made upon a large scale by National, State and City Governments to protect the life and health of their inhabitants. Water for domestic use is purified, sewers are built, contagious diseases are isolated and other scientific methods followed to prevent their spread, hospitals are maintained and other agencies are making many other efforts, all tending toward this same objective.

Among those most active are the corporations operating utilities, mines and industrial plants. The very nature and extent of their operations make it necessary for them to take proper measures for the protection of their patrons and employees, even if they are not legally compelled to do so. Thus safeguards must be provided against injury from mechanical and electrical appliances, poisonous or irritating fumes and dust, extremes of temperature, darkness and light, and the surroundings in general must be made as hygienic as circumstances will permit.

All the foregoing measures are universally accepted as being perfectly right and proper, but when steps are taken to guard against failures of the human element, the wisdom or necessity for such action is not so readily understood. Yet who would care to ride on a train the engineer of which was known to have defective vision? Or who would care to work near a man with a bad heart in a shop where he had control of mechanical appliances, the failure of which meant probable death or injury to those nearby? Or who would care to have someone with a contagious disease brought into a crowded shop or office where they were working?

There is but one safe way to find out a man's physical fitness and that is to have employees who are likely to endanger themselves or others examined at the time of employment, and periodically thereafter by a competent physician.

Such examinations have been customary for year in military service, schools, business and other institutions, and there is a marked tendency to their extension. In the meantime it behooves the individual to protect himself against the experience of applying for a position only to be informed that he is not physically qualified. The way to guard against such an experience is to have himself examined periodically and endeavor voluntarily to fit his employment to his physical abilities.

Self preservation is said to be the first law of nature and generally speaking this is correct. We know that men do not risk the immediate loss of life or health unless under strong provocation, yet they will neglect the proper care of themselves when they know that by so doing they are injuring their health and our lives may be lengthened by the care we take of our human engines shortening their lives.

ILLINOIS MAN ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT KONJOLA

Found in New and Different Medicine First Relief from Numerous Ills.

MR. H. T. GOFF.

"No wonder I am among the most enthusiastic friends of Konjola, after what it did for me," said Mr. H. T. Goff, 1807 Cass street, Joliet. "Six years ago my stomach failed me. No matter what I ate it soured on my stomach, bringing on gas, pain and bloating. Constipation added to my difficulties, filling my system with poisons and impurities. I became so nervous I could not sleep at night. And then my kidneys went bad. I was perfectly miserable all over; weak, tired and losing in weight and energy."

"When Konjola was recommended to me I thought this was just another medicine like all the rest. But what a surprise Konjola had in store for me. In five weeks Konjola had made practically a new man of me. All my health troubles had been solved. I know again what it is to enjoy the happiness that comes with health."

Dog Derby Friday Attracts Interest

Tahoe Tavern, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Impatiently awaiting the signal that will send them out over the frozen areas between here and Truckee Friday, ten men, two women and a boy today were ready for the gruelling 90-mile grind of the second annual Tahoe Sierra dog derby. The race through the snows is to be run in three daily laps of 30 miles each on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with $4,000 in cash awards and a year's possession of the Marco Helman trophy as the incentives. The winner will receive $2,000, while another $2,000 will be distributed among second, third and fourth finishers.

Thirteen entrants were officially announced today. They include two women, Lydie "Whistlin' Lyd" Hutchinson of Ashton, Idaho, and Thula Geelan, of McCall, Idaho, and a 17-year-old youth, Delbert Groom of Rigby, Idaho.

These will pit their skill and the stamina of their sturdy male-mates against experience of such veterans of the snows as "Scotty" Allen, Fay Delezen, Tud Kent, and others whose names are synonymous with dog racing.

COLLEGE EXPLAINS.
 New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Prep School today denied charges made against the Brooklyn College A. A. sponsors of a meet in which Jack Elder ran.

Because of alleged "misleading publicity" the executive committee of the National A. A. U. suggested that legislation be enacted to permit the elimination of "paper" organizations.

The Brooklyn prep school explained that it was founded in 1908 under the title of Brooklyn College A. A. was organized. The name of the athletic association was not changed although that of the college was.

Rash Romance

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, married her employer, ARTHUR KNIGHT, a knight in a widow with a daughter TONY, 18, in Paris and a son JUNIOR 10 at school.

A honeymoon in Bermuda is interrupted by a cablegram that Tony is on her way to America. Judith and Arthur sail to meet her. When Knight brings his daughter home the girl ignores her stepmother. Later she tells Judith she must leave the house. Knight overhears and compels Tony to apologize.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has helped through college, calls on Tony. He calls frequently and one evening when Tony refuses to accompany him to a dance show Judith goes. Tony left alone with her father tells him spitefully it is Judith and not herself whom Craig comes to the house to see. Knight denies this angrily.

Tony surprises Judith by asking her to have lunch in town with her next day. Judith keeps the appointment and is met by Andy Craig, who explains Tony asked him too to meet her. The two are together when Tony arrives half an hour late with her father. She is angry enough to make Judith's and Craig's protests sound incriminating. After Knight has come Judith goes to his office to explain. She is told by his secretary he cannot see her.

There is a reconciliation after Knight arrives home. He tells Judith they are to entertain a group of his business associates next week at a theater party. Judith buys a beautiful gown for the occasion. When she tries it on Arthur praises her extravagantly. Tony overhears and next day Judith finds the dress stolen to bits.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY OF CHAPTER XXIV

FOR several moments Judith considered the ruined gown. There was no need to ask who had done this. It was perfectly obvious Tony—of course!

She picked up the little pile of transparent stuff, so feathery light in weight, so glorious in coloring. The fabric fell apart as she lifted it, showing how the scissors had gashed the frock.

It was too late to do anything about it that evening. Tomorrow she would see.

Judith did not confide in Arthur Knight. She had her own ideas now to deal with Tony. And there was no need to add to her husband's worries.

A trip to the shop the dress had been purchased from was Judith's first move. She drove into town early next morning and for nearly an hour consulted the proprietor of the dressmaking salon. She left with a satisfied light in her eyes and the promise of a new frock in two days. That would be in time for Arthur's theater party.

Then Judith drove to a place where it was rather unusual for ladies to shop. She instructed Bert to wait and came out of the place 10 minutes later, a small parcel wrapped in brown paper under her arm.

"I've a small job of carpentering I'd like to have you do," Judith told the chauffeur after he had brought the car to a stop in the driveway of her home. "After you have put the car in will you come into the house?"

"Yes, Mrs. Knight."

When the young man appeared in the kitchen Mrs. Wheeler led him through the house and into the living room where Judith was waiting.

"Here," she said, handing him a small steel lock. "I want you to take this and put it on the door of the clothes closet in my room. Can you do that?"

"Yes, ma'am. I'll get some tools and be right back."

To see that the task was done exactly as she wanted it, Judith went upstairs when Bert returned and showed him where the lock was to go. She tried it later, after the hammering was done.

"It's Tony," he said. "Arrested . . . Tony—oh, my God!"

The lock worked.

Judith closed the door carefully, turned the new key and took it from the keyhole. She did not anticipate another attack of vandalism but laid the key safely away with her others.

Two evenings later when Bert brought the car around in front of the house for Mr. and Mrs. Knight to go into the city to join their friends, Judith looked as sweetly radiant in a sheath of dahlia-colored tulle as she had the previous evening.

Arthur held the velvet and ermine wrap for her. "Prettiest girl in New York," he said softly.

She smiled her thanks and together they went out of the house and down the steps.

The theater party went off smoothly. Gerald Johnstons, the London representative of the firm of Hunter Brothers, paid young Mrs. Knight a flattering compliment. Judith was more pleased by the fact that Mrs. Hunter kept her near and seemed to single her out for special attention. Playing hostess at such an affair involved few duties.

The play was an amusing one. After it was ended they visited one of the most popular roof entertainments where there was more singing and dancing by professionals. Johnstons seemed greatly diverted by what he referred to as "Americanisms."

Midnight passed and it was after three o'clock before the party broke up.

"Well," sighed Arthur Knight as he and Judith came after him. They had he and Judith at last started home. "I couldn't stand this sort of thing every night in the year but it was a pretty good night after all!"

He suppressed a yawn with one hand as he spoke.

"I think everyone enjoyed it," she said dreamily. Judith had been feeling drowsy for some time herself. She was still following the habit of arising at 7:30 and breakfasting with Arthur at eight.

They rode on in silence for a long while.

"Wonder where Tony was this evening?" her father said presently.

Judith didn't know. Tony had refused an invitation to join the theater party, frankly stating all those old fossils would bore her to death.

"I guess she'll be home by the time we get there," Knight's thoughts seemed to amuse him for he chuckled.

"Be a pretty good one on us, wouldn't it, to have Tony catch us getting in with the milk men? Don't you think that would be a good one—after I made her promise not to stay out after midnight?"

"Yes," Judith answered, "I guess it would."

SHE didn't think there was any great humor in the idea really. Nothing is apt to seem particularly humorous at four a. m. after a day and night of activity. But Judith was willing to be amiable.

Bert seemed sleepy, too, when he finally let them out of the car and drove on slowly toward the garage. Knight had his latchkey, fumbled getting it into the keyhole and then swung the door back.

Judith came after him. They had not been in the house two minutes before the strident tangling of a luring telephone cut the silence. Arthur hesitated on the stairway. "What the Dickens—?"

He went down the steps, through the living room and into his study, carrying her wrap thrown over her arm, followed.

Knight picked up the telephone. "Hello," he called in a gruff voice. Judith could hear the faint aching "hello" from where she stood beside him.

"Yes," said Arthur Knight. "Yes, it is Knight speaking." He was worried now plainly anxious.

"Yes, I told you so. Yes, What's that you say? WHAT'S THAT?"

"In my God! (this feebly) Yes—I'll be right down."

He set down the receiver.

"Arthur," cried Judith, now thoroughly aroused. "Oh, what is dear?"

Arthur Knight looked at his wife sternly.

"It's Tony," he said. "Arrested down at the police station now with some fool who's charged with leaving an automobile while intoxicated. Tony—oh, my God!"

The man shut his eyes as if to blot out the thought. His lips trembled.

"You're going down to bring a home?" Judith asked quickly.

"Yes," her husband answered, now very tired, how very drawn and careworn Arthur Knight looked!

Judith sprang into action. "You get your coat and hat, Arthur. I'll run out and have Bert bring the car back."

She was gone, the front door slammed, and almost in a moment it seemed she was back.

"He's waiting," she told Knight. "Dear, are you sure you'll be warm enough? Hadn't you better have your heavy coat?"

Knight was wearing the same evening topcoat he had had on for the theater. He brushed aside Judith's suggestions.

"I'm all right," he said. "It isn't cold out. Won't take us long to

REASSESSMENT
LOOP PROPERTY
ADDS TO MUDDLE
It Will Further Delay the Tax Collection In Cook County

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Forebodings of continued financial chaos rumbled through the local government today as public officials prepared for a final showdown with the citizens' rescue committee.

Adding to the already muddled situation, the Board of Review further delayed collection of 1928 and 1929 taxes by ordering what virtually amounted to a new reassessment of loop property.

This action followed protests from many sources—including the Board of Education—that loop property was undervalued $300,000,000 in the 1928 reassessment ordered by William H. Malone, chairman of the State Tax Commission.

Malone, in approving the new survey, said the delay in collecting back taxes would be "worthwhile" if "impartial and honest."

Meanwhile, officials were still divided over the acceptance of financial aid offered by Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the rescue committee.

Two Fight Plan.

Mayor William Hale Thompson, his forces in the city council, and H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the Board of Education, still frowned upon the Strawn offer—which was accompanied by an ultimatum that the public officials must pledge cooperation to reduce operating expenses to a minimum and allow the Strawn committee to designate for what needs the $20,000,000 in pledges shall be spent.

Anton Cermak, president of the County Board, and Howard Elmore, head of the Sanitary District, favored acceptance of the Strawn offer and pledged their cooperation.

The issuance of certificates of indebtedness to the Board of Education's coal dealers was expected today to fill up the dwindling coal bins in the public schools.

Gas and electric light bills have been unpaid by the school board since last August, while $872,422 is owed for text books.

Trapped behind several hundred miles of fast-solidifying pack ice that his light supply ships, the Eleanor Bolling and the City of New York, found themselves unable to penetrate, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and 42 members of his South Pole expedition await rescue at Little America, his base in the Antarctic. The crosses on the above map show where Byrd's ships entered the pack ice on their trip to bring the explorers back to civilization and after proceeding some distance, were trapped as the heavy ice blocked further progress. At the right is the City of New York and, below, Admiral Byrd. An appeal was made for heavy Norwegian whaling ships, now cruising in those waters and capable of breaking through the ice, be sent to their aid.

CHICAGO SOCIETY
WOMAN IS SUEING
RIVAL IN CALIF.

Asks $300,000 Damages In Alienation
Proceedings

Los Angeles, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Hattie Dean Hutchinson, Chicago society woman, was ready today to take the witness stand in her $300,000 alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Edith P. Taylor, who has admitted that she lived for 20 years with Samuel C. Hutchinson, Chicago film distributor.

Mrs. Taylor, the first witness in the case, testified yesterday that Hutchinson maintained an apartment for her for years. She said her real name was Edith Patterson and that she met the film distributor in Valparaiso, Ind., in 1908.

Mrs. Taylor testified that she did not know Hutchinson was married until she found a school report card of his legitimate son in a book he had given her. She said she previously had begged him to marry her but that he insisted he could not do so. Mrs. Taylor testified that she had borne Hutchinson two children, one of whom is 18 years old. The other is dead.

Hutchinson sobbed as Mrs. Taylor told her story.

Attorneys for Mrs. Hutchinson at the outset of the trial asserted that Mrs. Hutchinson lived for 20 years in ignorance of her husband's double life.

and that his offices in London and Hollywood gave him excuses for frequent absences from home. She did not learn of the deception until 1928, she said.

Militia On Guard
At Negro's Trial

Bolivar, Tenn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—With machine guns mounted on the court house steps and National Guardsmen patrolling the street, Carey Gunn, Negro, went on trial here today charged with attacking a 15-year-old Middleton, Tenn., school girl.

He was brought to Bolivar this morning from Memphis under guard of state troops commanded by Adjutant General W. C. Boyd.

All spectators were searched for weapons and warned against attempting any demonstration as they entered the court house.

The girl was attacked and her throat cut while she was on her way home from school last Dec. 6th. Gunn was captured after a chase through southern Tennessee and northern Mississippi.

Clubman And Wife
Or Trial Separation

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Herald and Examiner today quoted Chauncey B. Blair, wealthy insurance broker and clubman, as saying he and his wife, the former Mildred Marshall, were living apart in what he termed a "trial separation."

Incomparability, he said, was responsible. The newspaper quoted

Blair as saying that neither his wife nor himself had any thought of divorce, nor did either one regard the separation as permanent.

The Blairs were married in 1913. They have one son, 15 years old.

Three Mysteries In Detroit Near End

Detroit, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Three deaths which have remained mysteries since last November are believed by Detroit police to be solved with the arrests of three men, one in Elgin, Illinois, one in Georgia, and the other in Detroit.

The killings, police believe were the result of an attempted hi-jacking.

The man held are Harry Gregg, alias Killroy, brought back today from Elgin; Buck Price, now fighting extradition in Rome, Ga., and Byron Summerville. The three, police say, were members of a gang that shot and killed George Einkorn, alleged proprietor, and Lou's Davis, patron of a bling pig on the night of November 29.

Joseph Yeoman, one of the bandits, was mortally wounded by Einkorn and died two days later. Realizing he was going to die, police say, Yeoman instructed Summerville, Gregg and Price to remove all means of identification from his body after death and throw it into a lagoon on Belle Isle.

The body was found several days after the attempted holdup, frozen in the ice near the lower end of the island.

DON'T LIKE BEER

Tiffin, Ohio—Harry J. Close, Tiffin farmer, evidently doesn't like beer. He recently filed a cross-petition after his wife asked for a divorce claiming that his wife "made and sold beer." In his case at Common Pleas Court, it was not revealed as to whether or not he cared for the beverage, but the suit is evidence that he doesn't.
